Schüller

When it comes to redecorating your kitchen, now is the time to think pink. Right on trend for 2017 is this Pastel Rosé satin finish, part of the Schüller C collection. Create a contemporary look with a retro feel by combining this soft pink shade with strikingly dark Shaker-style panelled door fronts, shown here in anthracite. The Vienna kitchen is priced around £9115, available from InHouse Inspired Room Design.

Xey

Spanish furniture manufacturer Xey is making its way to the UK to deliver bespoke space-optimising solutions for every room in the home. Pictured here and on show in Xey's new London showroom is the S1 handleless kitchen – a minimalist design featuring sleek cabinetry that is available in a variety of laminate, lacquer and wood veneer finishes. Kitchens are priced from £14,000 and are covered by a 12-year warranty as standard.

Zip

If you're looking for the best, but you're on a budget, then you'll be pleased to know that Zip has launched its very first entry-level Hydrotap. Starting from £1099, the new Hydrotap provides filtered boiling and ambient water and comes in a choice of finishes – including bright chrome (shown), brushed chrome and matt black. Ideal for smaller kitchens, the tap eliminates the need for a kettle or filter water jug on the countertop and comes with a compact tank that takes up little room under the sink.

Crosswater

It has been 10 years since Crosswater's iconic Water Square tap first launched with its signature waterfall flow and high-shine chrome finish. Now, the same design has taken on a different shape – the Water Circle. The new range includes three-hole and two-hole mixers, monoblocs and bath fillers, and Crosswater has also brought out a special anniversary-edition tap, handmade with a Murano glass handle (shown). Priced £529, it is made to order only.

Victoria + Albert Baths

Victoria + Albert Baths has unveiled a new bath conceived by leading British architecture and interior design studio Conran + Partners. Eldon, priced from £2880, takes on the appearance of a freestanding bath while still having a back-to-wall design for ease of installation. It is also perfect for smaller spaces. The back ledge conveniently doubles as a shelf for deck-mounted taps – or a glass of wine.
